

SRA Update

Issue 138 - April 2025

- General updates [#tab_fd571]
- Compliance updates [#tab_fd572]

Welcome to the latest issue of SRA Update. We've put our clocks forward and I hope you're enjoying the lighter evenings. We've also opened the window for those non-practising solicitors who wish to remain on the roll. You have until 28 May to apply - find out how in this month's issue. We have information too on continuing competence, our higher rights of audience pilot, and details of our biannual firm diversity data exercise which will take place in the summer. Whether it's the ethical challenges of working in-house, sanctions compliance or the SQE, we have a range of webinars for you to catch up on. And there are more events to come on issues ranging from anti-money-laundering compliance to practical tips on innovation. Find out how to book your place.

Paul Philip

Chief Executive

Remaining on the roll now open

[\[https://media.sra.org.uk/mysra/updates/apply-to-remain-on-roll/\]](https://media.sra.org.uk/mysra/updates/apply-to-remain-on-roll/)

Solicitors without a practising certificate must tell us each year if they wish to remain on the roll. If that is you, then you will need to apply during the application window (3 April - 28 May) and pay a £20 fee.

Apply for free SQE assessment places

[\[https://media.sra.org.uk/become-solicitor/sqe/access-reinvestment-fund/\]](https://media.sra.org.uk/become-solicitor/sqe/access-reinvestment-fund/)

Organisations who support aspiring solicitors facing personal barriers to qualify can now apply for funding that will cover the cost of sitting the SQE assessments. To be eligible, the organisation must have a track record of running existing schemes helping aspiring solicitors. Deadline to apply is Wednesday 30 April.

Remaining competent - resources available to help you

[<https://media.sra.org.uk/solicitors/resources/continuing-competence/understanding-continuing-competence/>]

Maintaining your competency to carry out your role is a regulatory obligation. You must keep your knowledge and skills up to date and address any learning and development needs. We have resources, templates, guidance and warning notices that can help you remain competent.

Firm diversity data - coming in the summer and questionnaire now available

[<https://media.sra.org.uk/solicitors/resources/equality-diversity/your-data/#5486>]

All SRA-regulated firms must collect, report and publish data about the diversity make-up of their workforce every two years. You will be able to report your diversity data to us in early summer 2025. The diversity questions, which have no significant changes, are now available should you wish to start collecting data from your staff.

In March, more than 200 delegates attended our third in-house conference. Sessions considered the role of the employer, developing an ethical culture and the impact of technology on the profession. 98% of delegates said they would attend the event again, with more than half rating the event 9+ out of 10. The whole event is now available to watch on-demand.

Welcome to the latest issue of Compliance News. A new ‘failure to prevent fraud’ offence is due to be introduced. We have published information to help you understand your obligations. We also have included reminders about the new charge for car finance claims introduced by the Financial Conduct Authority, guidance on sham litigation, our warning notice around marketing and ‘no win, no fee’, as well as an update to our query on accepting cryptocurrency as payment.

New ‘failure to prevent fraud’ offence coming in the autumn [\[https://media.sra.org.uk/sra/news/sra-update-138-prevent-fraud-crime/\]](https://media.sra.org.uk/sra/news/sra-update-138-prevent-fraud-crime/)

The UK’s new corporate ‘failure to prevent fraud’ offence comes into force in September. The offence will make it easier to fine and prosecute large organisations for fraud offences by closing loopholes that have allowed them to avoid prosecution.

New charge for financial product mis-selling claims [\[https://media.sra.org.uk/sra/news/sra-update-138-car-finance-claims-charge/\]](https://media.sra.org.uk/sra/news/sra-update-138-car-finance-claims-charge/)

The Financial Ombudsman Service has started charging for compensation claims made through ‘professional representatives’. Each application, if ten or more are received, will be £250, although 70 per cent is refunded if the claim is successful. We have guidance for those firms who run financial product mis-selling claims.

Sham litigation - learning from criminal case

[\[https://media.sra.org.uk/solicitors/guidance/sham-litigation/\]](https://media.sra.org.uk/solicitors/guidance/sham-litigation/)

We have written guidance about sham litigation following an attempted case that led to a ten-year prison sentence last year. We spoke to some of the firms who were contacted by the perpetrators and can share some of the tactics they spotted as well other general features related to sham litigation.

Warning around marketing and 'no win, no fee'

We have issued a warning notice about marketing your services to the public. We are particularly concerned about the behaviours of some firms doing high-volume consumer claims work. Unsolicited approaches such as cold calling and door knocking are prohibited, while firms need to make sure that information on 'no win, no fee' arrangements is clear and accurate, including information on charges and the risks around costs.

We have updated a question in our anti-money laundering Q&A about accepting cryptocurrency as a payment. We do not recognise crypto as money that can be paid into the client account. A valid client account can also only be used via a bank or building society, and neither have the facilities for crypto at this stage.
